

Where Are You, Faby Books

Original title: Where Are You, Faby Books

The search for Faby Books begins in a honey store in Ghent, when the ancient Fabienne van Lomberghen accidentally drops a photo from her childhood on the counter. The shopkeeper discovers that this lady is Faby Books, one of the founders of Ancienne Belgique. Saint Anthony, the patron saint of lost causes, is invoked to find her again. We look for her in all the other women the honey-seller meets: waiting for a bus, in love, walking, working, searching.
